THE PENNY DRIVE

HEADING FOR MARS

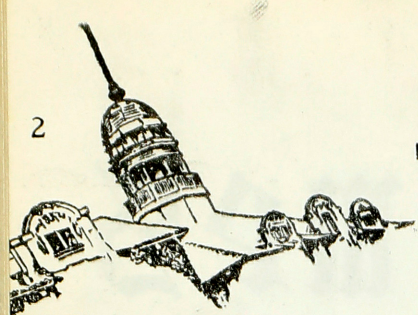

80% OF OBJECTIVE REACHED

With the Penny Drive and Monte Carlo Night over, the results show that the Community Chest Drive for funds has gone over the 80% mark. Chairman Robert Hebb reported that over $400.00 was realized from the two events and the class donations.

The Penny Drive got underway Monday morning and five teams guided their "rocket ships" along the corridors of the Main Building and the Hall leading to the Chemistry Bldg.

When 6:00 P.M. arrived the "rocket" ship from Team 5 was heading back to the Main Building being closely trailed by Team 2. The winning team, consisting mostly of Diploma and Homemaker students, certainly deserve congratulations for their spirited performance in the race. The other teams placed as follows:- third-Team 4, fourth-Team 1, and fifth-Team 3.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Congratulations to the Senior's and their fine issue of the Failt-Ye last week. To each and every one of them we would like to wish a very memorable graduation and a successful, happy future.

This issue is the second in the series of the Failt-Ye Times Interclass Competition and it is the hope of the Junior Class Editorial Staff that you, the readers, will find this paper to your liking. The word "Failt-Ye" is of Gaelic origin and means a welcome or a greeting. So this paper comes to greet you and also to keep you informed of the events which have occurred and which are being planned about the campus.

In closing this note I would like to thank all those who helped the Editorial Staff in planning and publishing this paper.

EDITORIALS

In our modern world, with its fast moving airplanes and cars, with its ever increasing hustle and bustle we often hear people say: "Oh, I'm too busy; I haven't time to do this or that!". No doubt we have said the same thing ourselves. This rapid pace is especially evident in the urban areas where one can watch the throngs rushing about, going to and from work. Even in the rural areas the trend is showing up as attempts are made to speed up Nature and man. Here at Macdonald we rush to meals, to lectures, and to meetings. There always seems to be something demanding our attention, whether worthy of it or not. We seem to be doing something all the time but whether or not it is worthwhile is questionable. Perhaps we should stop for a minute and think about this situation. Are we too busy with things which are of secondary importance? Our life consists of more than our physical existence; we must nourish our soul, mind, and spirit as well as our body.

The years we spend in college should be the ones which guide us in our later years. Are we using this time to best advantage? College life seems to be a continuous period of lectures, labs, meetings, meals and social activities. This sort of life seems to be a rather self-centered one; many of us are too "busy" to sit down and meditate, to allow our mind and soul to develop. Perhaps we are wasting our substance on things which are of secondary importance. Today there appears to be developing a tendency towards increased dependence on human standards. Are people placing on themselves the responsibility of looking after all the affairs of the world? These verses from Psalm 127 seem rather significant: "Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it; except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain. It is vain for you to rise up early, to sit up late, to eat the bread of sorrows: for so he giveth his beloved sleep". So perhaps we, here at college, can slow down just a little and allow ourselves to develop a new sense of values regarding life and how we can make the best possible use of it.

G. M.

We are entering an era of specialization where, instead of viewing a scene as a rounded whole, it is becoming one of many jagged facets. A wonderful plight for efficiency, yet woeful to ponder over.

Let us examine such a basic item as a tract of arable land. After a soil analysis, cultivation, seeding, fertilizing, liberal sprinkling of trace elements, irrigation if necessary, and two ulcers worth of worry we have at the end of a season a very substantial yield. This pattern is no longer conducive to constructive rumination and meditation; the mind must be kept alert just as an executive's in a large diversified industry. At the end of the day our "farmer" washes his hands and lets everything go but the worry and planning until the morrow. This is an unbalanced individual living, but unaware of life.

As we are gaining more control over the variables the rhythm and beauty of nature are becoming more obscure. It was these phenomena which first stimulated man to think, adore order, and worship a God, and after these concepts were formulated, constantly refreshed him through his maturation right up till this day.

So, in a lopsided sort of a way, we are progressing, but like any unbalanced moving object, we shall soon circle into regression. During our lifetime all of agriculture will be passed into the hands of those with a refined knowledge; this is most necessary. But if it is all they possess, education will have lost its present meaning. What with seeding clouds and irrigation a spontaneous downpour after a dry spell will have lost its meaning and beauty. And so this argument carries on.

Think of old Bossy. Nowadays she is artificially impregnated and has her calf removed before it can even suckle. I can hardly blame her for longing for the good old days. Even if mastitis was more prevalent, the risk was worth it. How impersonal, productive, and detached the whole mess is becoming; gone is the romance and whisper of uncertainty. On all fronts science is advancing to victory, but to me a Pyrrhic victory. An improved physical environment cannot compensate for a restricted individual.

Perhaps we may consider a solution to alleviate this anticipated "intellectual vacuum" which has probably arrived unnoticed.

Here at Mac we have teaching us some of the most balanced and clear-thinking minds we shall see in a long time. Yet all we get is the concrete and obvious scientific details. Think how delightful it would be to receive an hour of carefully prepared mental stimulation once a week--perhaps on some philosophical projection of agriculture. Something basic; say for instance, if we were guided to interpreting our external environment, which is becoming more and more obscure due to our present different pattern, and how this interpretation and integration is still influencing one of the most common and least understood of words--culture.

A vote of thanks should go to all the students and staff who helped, in any way, with the successful Drive.

Wednesday night the Men's Gym seemed to take on the appearance of a bazaar as the Community Chest Drive continued. This event, Monte Carlo night, was also successful; over $200.00 was taken in. There were many attractions for the crowd to take part in; everything from an Auction Sale to a Bingo game. Items auctioned off varied from the normal and included a cat and a date with a charming young lady. The latter was purchased by one commonly known as "Goose".

Congratulations are in order to the Frosh, and to the Juniors and Home-makers, who helped in making the evening a success. Thanks to all who helped in any way, especially Bob Cooper who acted as auctioneer. To the merchants of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, thanks are also extended for their donations.

So it seems that the Community Chest Drive will reach the top by Friday night. To the Chairman, Robert Hebb, and to all his Committee members, should go a bouquet for a job well done.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

A number of startling changes have been wrought; I feel it my duty to comment on them.

A chain around the campus, gates closed by eleven, powerful flood-lights at night, and now me, dismembered. What in the name of shrubbery is going on here anyway? Can you humans not trust yourselves? Have you not noticed parked cars becoming more prevalent after dark?

Worst, and I feel most deeply about this, is myself. For forty years (count my rings) I have been linked with the adventurous and romantic life of Mac. Now I look and feel like an old inverted, worn-out mop.

They say it was for my health; actually, I think it was for my wood. Well, so be it, but yet one small item; we salix are rather modest and a few fig branches judiciously grafted would be deeply appreciated.

Salix Campum.

SPECIAL NOTICES

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AT MACDONALD COLLEGE

The students of the Institute of Education, Macdonald College will present their Annual Christmas Pageant in the Assembly Hall of the College on December 18th, at 2:00 P.M. and 8:00 P.M.

The scene of the pageant is a town square before a cathedral in Mediaeval times. It was customary, in honour of the Christmas festival, for the Mediaeval craftsmen guilds to put on entertainments for their fellow citizens. Singing, dancing and the presentation of short religious plays interpreting Old and New Testament stories provided the chief entertainment for the crowd. Adaptations of two 14th Century plays - Noah and the Ark and the Second Shepherd's Play from the Towneley Cycle will form part of the pageant.

The music has been arranged by Dr. Frank Hanson and the scenery and costumes have been designed by the students under the direction of Miss Betty Jaques.

Residents along the Lakeshore are cordially invited to attend either of the two performances.

FUN FOR ALL

The weekly meeting of the Students' Council took place Tuesday night at 7:30 P.M. with 13 members attending.

The Dining Hall Committee suggested to the Council that a set of rules be drawn up for the use of the Lit. and Deb. P.A. system in the Foyer, which is being currently used to make various announcements.

Under new business before the Council a set of rules was approved governing the Tea Service Set which was presented to the students of the College by the class of '56. This set is made available for functions at the College by applying to the Secretary of the Council.

The President of the Lit. and Deb. informed the Council that there was to be additional electrical equipment bought for the Assembly Hall and that half of the cost would be paid by Lit. and Deb. from the Stage Improvement Fund, while the other half would be paid by Bldgs. and Grounds. This will be a big help in the production of the Green and Gold.

In view of what is being done in some other Canadian universities, the Council discussed the possibility of providing financial help for a Hungarian refugee to further his or her education at this college. It was unanimously agreed upon that this be given further consideration. Bob Smith was nominated to head a committee which would further study the matter.

THOUGHTS

One should write only to express something worthwhile. The expression of full contentment portrays itself in philosophical ideas worthy to be recorded.

I am eager to live a full life and make a resolution to live each moment - each moment to full advantage - to use every moment of this precious life whether the time be in agony, fury, love or awe. I want to be aware of my being alive - of having within me the strength coming from belief and a soul at peace. This awareness causes each sensuous talent one by one to be fulfilled - sight, sound, smell, touch, taste. I never am completely satisfied.

NOTE OF THANKS

Brittain Hall,
Dec. 3, 1956

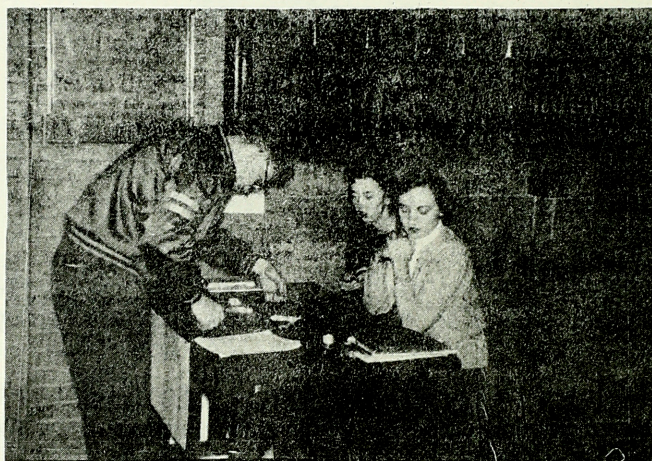

Dear Sir,

On behalf of the Green and Gold Executive, I wish to thank the Editor and Staff of the Failt-Ye Times for their co-operation in publicizing the Green and Gold Auditions. I wish, also, to thank the Senior Class for allowing us to print a two page Ad in their Class Edition of the paper. It is co-operation such as this that makes the Green and Gold possible.

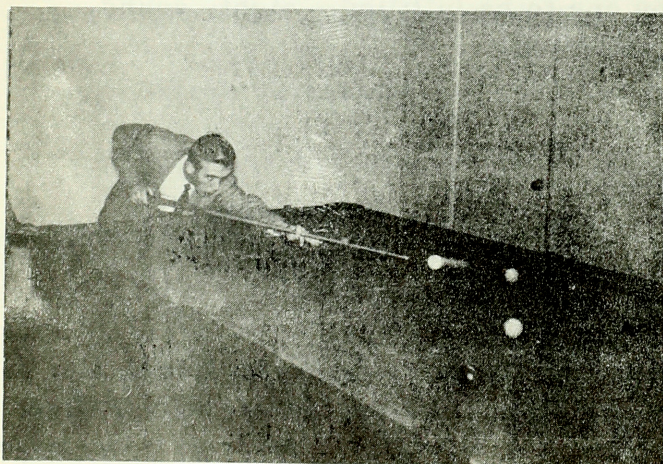

Yours sincerely,
Raymond Smith, Publicity, G. & G. of '57.

IF GIRLS ASKED BOYS FOR DATES

The Class of '60 got off to a good start with their first Class Play "If Girls Asked Boys for Dates", a rollicking and satirical comedy with a self-explanatory title by Anne Coulter Martens.

The play itself was a rather unambitious choice, it was simple and quite short. Nevertheless, it was not a show which merely had to be released and then left to run itself. It required intelligent directing and good use of the available talent. Both of these requirements were fulfilled by the Frosh Class, and in this they showed their wisdom in the choice of a play which was well within their scope.

From the start, the story was seen to be of familiar pattern, with an excited girl nervously flitting about the house in preparation for her first big date. But here and from henceforth, there was something oddly different, for it was George, a rather shy young boy who was dressing for the occasion, and he was being aided in his preparation and given moral support by his mother, Mrs. Smith, who recalled the early days of her courtship when she first took George's father out on a date. The conversation between mother and son was soon interrupted by the arrival of George's friend Harry, also being escorted out by a lady suitor. Harry was an old hand, having been taken out many times and knowing all the angles. He gave George the benefit of his experience, telling him how best to "soak" the ladies and be assured of a good, expensive evening. This, of course, revealed that the author of the play was a lady of wide experience, and must doubtless serve as a lesson and a warning to many men, - and also to girls in future Sadie Hawkins Seasons. Soon, the two girls, Kay and Nancy arrived, bringing buttonholes and much flattery for their menfolk, and waited patiently whilst the boys put the finishing touches to their appearance. Finally came the time for departure, accompanied by the usual arguments (in reverse, of course) about the expense of taxis, the unsuitability of hamburgers for the occasion, and so on.

George was somewhat nervously played by Aylmer Parsons. Although his awkwardness was probably due as much to stage fright as anything else, it was quite in keeping with the character of the part, and was not uncomfortably noticeable. The part of Harry was taken by Murray Lamb, who fitted easily into the role. He appeared quite at ease during the performance, and had the self assurance of one to whom the experience of a "date" was nothing new. Edna McCutcheon gave a very good interpretation of the part of Mrs. Smith; poised and mature, she had the situation well in hand throughout, and brought convincing realism to the stage. The two girls, Kay and Nancy, were played by Sue Laurie and Joan Yates. These straightforward roles were quite well taken, although both girls seemed a little ill at ease and self-conscious; possibly because of their relatively late entry, neither of them really settled down to their parts very easily.

The stage and lighting effects were quite good, although the appearance of the Student's desk, complete with text-books and goose-neck reading lamp, was decidedly out of harmony with the remainder of the living room furniture.

The overall impression of this play was a very pleasing one, and the cast, the director Betty Carscallen, and her team of helpers are to be congratulated on a very good effort.

AROUND THE OVAL

Frosh Frolic

"When I was just a little Frosh" was the theme chosen by the Class of '60 for a special dance held on Sat. Dec. 1st, in the Women's Gym. The Frolic got under way at 8:30 P.M. with dancing to modern and old favourite records. One of the highlights of the evening was the Jive contest, which was enjoyed by both participants and spectators alike. About 10:30 refreshments were put on sale in the Stewart Room, after which dancing was resumed until 11:45 when the party ended.

A special vote of thanks is due to Dr. and Mrs. Rowles who kindly acted as chaperones. Congratulations are also in order to the Decoration Committee and all the members of the Frosh Class who helped to make this dance so enjoyable.

International Students' Organization

On Sunday, Dec. 2nd, The International Students' Organization was born here on the Mac campus. The object of the organization, as outlined at the meeting, is to enable students to learn about the life and customs of people from different countries.

An election of officers took place and the results were as follows: President - Mrs. D. Johnson, Vice-President - Mr. Lacey Walke, and Secretary-Treasurer - Mr. Newton Johnson.

The next meeting will be held on Dec. 16th at 1:30 P.M. and the speaker will be Mr. Chuck Gallagher, President of the Students' Council. Everyone interested is invited to attend.

Camera Club

Last Monday evening Mr. A. Desjardins, of "Top Hat Photo", gave a demonstration here in colour developing. Those who attended for the first time were amazed at seeing what was originally thought to be a very intricate job, requiring an elaborate laboratory and equipment, so easily accomplished. This was one of the many such demonstrations sponsored by the Camera Club and it is hoped that more students will take full advantage of the facilities offered.

During the College Royal the Camera Club will be sponsoring their usual photo contest, both "Black and White" and "Colour". The prizes are attractive and prospective competitors may improve their chances of winning through association with this organization.

The membership fee is $1.00, and the Club provides the necessary equipment; also it has made it possible for an appreciable discount on all photographic materials purchased at Top Hat Photo in Ste. Annes and at Mitchells in Montreal.

One of the important issues brought up at last Monday night's meeting of the executive was the Lit. & Deb.'s Christmas week-end scheduled for December 14th, 15th and 16th. The Frosh class will be in charge of decorating the Foyer, Stewart Room and Dining Room on the afternoon of the 14th. With such a keen group they are sure to outdo anything we have seen in previous years. Its a lot of fun and we hope that every Freshette and Freshman will take the opportunity to be out with the class dressing up the place for Christmas.

The McGill Choral Society is paying its annual visit to the college on Saturday evening, December 15th. This is an evening of first class entertainment eagerly awaited by all who have seen and heard them and an event not to be missed by the new students. Following the concert, refreshments are served, and dancing in the Women's Gym brings to an end one of the most enjoyable evenings of the year. Tickets will be on sale soon at the low price of sixty cents for the entire evening. You will be sorry if you miss this, so make a note of the McGill Choral Society right now.

The grand finale of the week-end is the Christmas Party held in the Dining Room on the Sunday evening before the holidays. Ruth McConnell, the chairman, gave a fine report of her work on the party and everything points towards a wonderful evening of carol singing, readings, presenting of awards, refreshments, and a visit from Santa Claus.

Eric Samuels and Ken Robinson gave a most interesting report on their trip to the Inter-University Debating League's meeting held at Loyala College on November 17th. They were much impressed by the high level of the discussions and felt that Macdonald should join this league. They both expressed their willingness to offer suggestions for the organization of a Debating Club and to act in an advisory capacity. A discussion followed and it was decided that an attempt would be made to form such a club. Anyone interested in debating, especially at an inter-college level is asked to watch the notice boards in the Foyer for news of meetings.

Interclass debates were also brought up but no definite news will be available until next week. The date for the model debate was tentatively set for the first Wednesday after January exams.

The Current Events Club will be holding a meeting next week and we hope that a good representation of the students will be out to take an active part in this very worthwhile club.

Don Wood is still busy on plans for the Winter Carnival which is held every year in February. This promises to be one of the highlights of the new term with a Woodsman Contest, Ice Sculpturing Contest, and even a Carnival Queen.

Before closing may we suggest that right now you circle December 15th and 16th on your calender -- the McGill Choral Society and the Christmas Party, two evenings you cannot miss.

WHY DID YOU COME TO MACDONALD ?

Wherever students get together for those catty little bull sessions and discuss anything from members of the opposite sex to the latest class meeting the above question pops in every now and again. This is especially true of students who come from different areas in Canada or outside of this fair land. All of us have our various reasons for coming to this institution, and it seems natural for us to wonder why other people have come to Mac. Some may come because it is more or less the natural college for them to attend. All their life they have heard of the wonders of Mac from either of their parents who blessed these halls more years ago than they care to enumerate. Others come here because they are offered courses which might be difficult to take at some other institution of learning. The reasons are as many and varied as the people that populate this campus for none are actually identical, but for the sake of interest and curiosity the Editorial Staff thought it might try to get some students opinions on this subject. And so a public opinion poll was carried out with students representing every class being interviewed in a random method. Here are the reasons given by the people asked: "Why did you come to Mac?"

Homemaker: I came to fill in a year before a business course or nursing. Mac is close to home. To get acquainted with college life.
To learn to run a home.

2nd year Agr.: One year at college might have some fun. It did so I'm back for a second year.

4th year H.Ec.: Wanted to get out of Toronto. Wanted to take Home Ec.
Wanted a degree from McGill.

1st year Teacher (male): Wanted to become a teacher and find out what the place was like, had heard a lot about it..

Elementary Teacher (female): For education and fun.....

3rd year Agr. : No place else I could go under the circumstances of my educational background. It's a popular college for Maritime students to finish their degree.

1st year H. Ec.: Interested in Home Ec. in general and heard Mac had one of the best courses offered. Influenced by friends. Didn't want to take Ontario fifth form.

2nd year Dip. : To learn more about Agriculture, the inside information, the technical part of it... Learn how to meet people and get along with them and how to conduct yourself at meetings. Go back to home community and raise the standards of the farmers. To have

3rd Year H.Ec.	Interested in Home Ec. and Mac. is closest to home. Wanted education because nowadays you need more than a high school education if you want to get anywhere. Wanted college sports and social life. . . To meet people and learn to deal with them.
2nd Year Teacher (male)	Because I wanted to be a teacher and Mac. offers the best teaching course in the Province of Quebec. Furthermore the women are nice
Kindergarten	To be a teacher. To enjoy myself. Meet new people. Influenced by parents and friends.
4th Year Agr.	I was mixed up . . . not much money, and heard that Mac. was a very nice place. I wanted education in Agriculture.
Handicraft	To have a ball . . . Can take course here in one year rather than in four as offered elsewhere.
1st Year Agr.	Heard a lot about it and decided to experience it myself. Mac. has a high reputation in Jamaica . . . I have not been disappointed so far.
Intermediate Teacher (female)	Wanted to be a teacher. Close to home. Was familiar with the campus and knew it was a good college. Wanted to meet people and develop more fully.
2nd Year H.Ec.	To get an all round education. To learn to be a dietitian. To catch a man

A BIT OF ADVICE

In promulgating your esoteric codulations, articulating your superficial sentimentalities, and amicable philosophical psychological observations beware of platitudinous ponderosities. Let your extemporaneous dissentings and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility and vivacity.

Sedulously avoid all ostentatious prolixity, cetaceous vacillancy, and ventriliquent verbosity. Avoid double entre and pestiferous profundity, observant or apparent.

IN OTHER WORDS - Speak plainly, purely and briefly. Say what you mean, mean what you say, don't put on airs and for goodness sake don't use BIG WORDS . . .

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE COW

The cow is a female quadruped with an alto voice and a countenance in which there is no guile. She collaborates with the pump in the production of a liquid called milk, provides the filler for hash, and is finally skinned by those whom she has benefitted, as mortals commonly are.

The young cow is called a calf, and is used in the production of chicken salad.

The cow's tail is mounted aft and has a universal joint. It is used to disturb marauding flies, and the tassel on the end has a unique educational value. Persons who milk cows, and come often in contact with the tassel have vocabularies of peculiar and impressive force.

The cow has two stomachs. The one on the ground floor is used as a warehouse and has no other function. When this one is filled, the cow retires to a quiet place where her ill manners occasion no comment and devotes herself to belching. The raw material thus conveyed for the second time to the interior of her face is pulverized and delivered to the auxiliary stomach. There it is converted into cow.

The cow has no upper plate. All her teeth are parked in the lower part of her face. This arrangement was perfected by an efficiency expert to keep her from gumming things up. As a result she bites up and gums down.

The male cow is called bull and is lassoed in Texas, fought in Mexico, and shot in Ottawa.

A slice of cow is worth 8 cents in the cow, 14 cents in the hands of the packers, and $2.40 at the nearest restaurant.

ONE NIGHT OF ADVENTURES WITH WINKEN, BLINKEN AND NOD

Blinken and Nod approached the door. The room was in total darkness. Good, that meant that Winken was in. They piled onto the beds, pushed Winken over to her third, scuffled for the blanket, and began to talk.

"I'm bored! What exciting little gem is on the agenda for tonight?"

"I feel like dancing, I don't care to what kind of an orchestra, I just want to dance, Nod, even if it is to your harmonica."

"Me too, or I know what, seeing as there aren't three available 'musty steers', let's play Botticelli!"

"Uh, unh, I'm not feeling too intellectual tonight." This last was contributed by Winken. "Who wants a cup of tea?" she added.

"I do" chorused the other two.

"Who's going to make it?"

After a lengthy and undignified debate (which was par for the course) it fell to the lot of Blinken, for the other two felt it quite "unaggieified" to boil water.

Blinken presided at the urn. "Lemon, anyone? Oh dear, no lemon."

Winken came to the rescue with a lemon sucker she had acquired, (they never quite knew how), on a furtive trip to Montreal.

"Nod, do you remember the time we three came in on a 12:45 (by some freak of nature we were all on time) and were so hungry? Everybody was asleep and between us we had only a few raisins and some old cheese (cheese and raisins -- our favourite midnight snack . . . UGH!) Our noses led us to the Senior Study where to our chagrin we found only three slices of two-week-old bread. I wonder why we were so ravenous that night. Those walks to Morgan's Woods sure whet the appetite."

Sphynx maximus or the Hadmirable George

Here we have a mighty beastie, it must be approached with caution. There may be those who think a sphynx should not be included in a study of natural history. This is due to the falaciously false impression that sphynxes are made of stone. That this one is not can easily be seen by the fact that THIS SPHYNX WYNX. This is, however, still only half the story, as this sphynx both wynx and thynx, which makes it a SPTHYNX which is just a bit more difficult to pronounce so see picture instead.

Appearance and General Characteristics Comfortable and generally slightly shaggy. Often externally combusting.

Cries ". . . .can have anything they want", very frequent. Also equally common, and often uttered in quick succession "Provided there is not a good reason why they should not".

Found Always centrally located, in the middle of the hub, hubs, hububs, etc. It can always be found in its lair which is approached through charming floral Cerberi, and yet manages to be everywhere else where needed and at the same time.

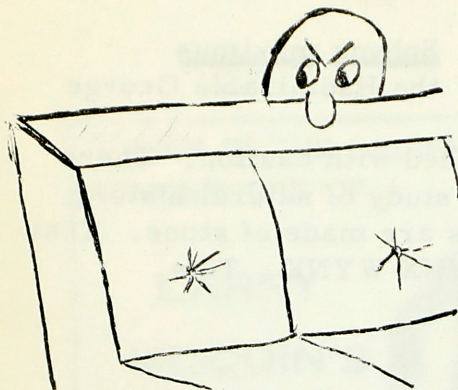

Activities Checking, rechecking, changing, speaking-talking-chatting, advising, suggesting, providing, proposing, diagnosing, decomposing, etc. Utterly incredible and fantastic, and explains its crumpled hose and strong incendiary habits.

This animal is so full of knowledge, that its effect is quite insphynxivating, and there is no doubt that only one eye wynx. Signed Drawin and Yokin

N..B. This is not an attempt to solve the Middle East situation -- or anything at all for that matter.

JUST CHADDING

"Oh brother!" said Chad, as he breezed up to me early this week. "Have I got some news for you this week." "Goody, goody, goody," I replied, with a slight drool. "What is it?" "This will be really scandalous when it hits," he chortled, and then burst into raucous laughter. "Evidently the Freshettes like their new sweaters so much that they're having pictures taken in them. "What is so scandalous about that?" I asked a bit disappointed. "Oh, don't you see?" he replied, "the sweaters; that's all. Leaving me he took off in a cloud of dust, adjusting his binoculars higher on his shoulder.

Later in the week, Chad found me sipping a cup of coffee in the Coffee Shop. "Don't you get caught like Bob Douglas, eh?" he said. "What do you mean?" I asked. "He got fined for not putting his coffee cup back," he chuckled, "imagine, and he is president of the Coffee Shop Committee." I assured him that I wouldn't as I couldn't afford the fine. I had to scrounge money from my roommate for the cup I was drinking.

Speaking of warnings, Chad asked me to warn George Beckford that if he is going to park Inder's car, not to park it on the railway tracks. He says that the affair would be a smashing success but he doesn't think George would enjoy it.

Inder, Chad hears that you had a real hotseat pulled on you the other day. Evidently you were seen cruising towards the bathroom with your pajamas afire. Chad understands that you sat on the hotplate and he hopes there will be no visible scars.

Chad was wondering if anyone knows the real name of the young gentleman who, when he is in the Stewart Room, is always surrounded by a group of young, pretty girls. He says that he applauds the gentleman's taste but wonders how he manages to keep so many on the hook. Later on in the week he came up to me and said he had one more clue to the name in question. He heard him called "Peaball".

Speaking of the Stewart Room, Chad feels the unofficial name should be changed from the "Judging Arena" as the N.S.A.C. boys christened it, to "Lover's Leap" and that the sofas should be collectively called the "Kissing Rocks". He feels this is due because of the conduct that is so prevalent in said room these days.

Dr. Callen was seen the other day sneaking into the Green House with a decidedly furtive look on his face. It seems that one of his pet trees is bearing slowly ripening fruit and he wants to get them before his students do. Usually the good doctor makes a very special preserve out of them but the crop is going fast. He made the mistake of showing it to one of his botany classes.

CHAD'S MAILBAG

To Chad:-

I believe you are doing a fine job of being typical of many people on a small campus. You have the ability to poke your nose into many people's private affairs. However, because you are such a character, and incognito too, you may have struck upon the rare combination of facilities to indicate to many people just how they look in the eyes of an observer. Would you do many of us a favour and point out to our lovers who frequent the foyer and Stewart Room after and before meals that they look extremely silly, or are you perhaps one of them?

Blinken took out her knitting. After checking to see that the door was closed, Winken and Nod began, (a little guiltily it is true) to work on theirs.

Unable to face turning the heel of their respective socks at this point, Blinken and Nod slowly stumbled out of the room harmonizing "Lullaby", a pretty song, (i.e. what had once been a pretty song), that

WOMEN'S SPORTS

Swimming Meet

Come out on Monday, Dec. 10th, and cheer your class to victory in the Interclass Swimming Meet. There are points for your class towards the athletic shield and all spectators are welcome.

The qualifications took place this week and the girls with the five best times will take part in the meet. However, all those who qualify will receive points.

As well as the regular races there will be the Novelty Events which include the cork and spoon race, the 3-hand race and the old clothes race which should be quite amusing.

There will also be some synchronized events and as a highlight to the meet the synchronized swimming team will present the numbers they are doing in the McGill synchronized swimming show.

Synchronized Swimming

Everyone has heard about the McGill Synchronized Swimming Show which takes place on Friday, Dec. 7th and Saturday, Dec. 8th. Mac has two numbers in this show so why not attend on Saturday and take in the McGill Athletics Night which includes all types of sports and a dance as well as watching our synchronized team steal the show.

Archery

"Christmas Shoot" That is the name of the archery tournament taking place on Tuesday, Dec. 11th at 8:00 p.m. This will be an unusual tournament as different targets will be used. Anyone who has ever taken archery is welcome to participate in the tournament.

Basketball

The Intercollegiate teams will be chosen this week and those chosen will play their first game against McGill on December 13th. This game will take place at McGill.

Interclass Basketball

This is the last week of Interclass basketball. If time permits there will be semi final and if not the final will be played between the winners of the two leagues on December 12th at 6:00 p.m. All spectators are welcome.

Figure Skating

The Winter Carnival is not as far away as we may think and skaters are needed. Those interested in doing solos, duets and being in a chorus line are asked to watch the notice boards for meetings before Xmas. If you miss this Friday's meeting be sure you attend the next or contact Miss Johnstone. Practices will not be held until after the first term examinations.

The big upset of the week came when the Freshmen defeated the first place Sophomores two games to none and handed them their first defeat of the season.

HOCKEY

At the Face-off

On Monday night the first Intercollegiate hockey practise was held. Due to the large number of applicants Coach Bob Pugh held two practises. Half of the players worked out from 7 to 8 and the remainder took the ice at 9 o'clock.

Approximately thirty men took part in the first practises and the prospects for this year's team look very good. Since the majority of last year's squad is back this year, the fight for positions on the team should prove to be very keen.

Curling

Largely through the efforts of R.D. Hamilton a Curling Club has made its appearance on the campus this year. The Ste. Annes Curling Club is at the disposal of this group on Wednesday, from 5 to 7. The President is R.D. Hamilton while Gordon Powell is the Secretary. Elmer Black and Hartland Findlay were nominated to the match committee.

At the first practise eighteen boys turned out to receive instruction and to improve their own game.

In the Ste. Annes Bonspiel this week, two teams will be representing Macdonald College

Intercollegiate Basketball

An R.M.C. team suddenly caught afire in the final minutes of play proved to be too much for the "Aggies" last Saturday afternoon as they wound up on the short end of a 62-49 score. With only eight minutes remaining in the game Macdonald was leading by about eight points. Then a cadet named Aichenger spelled the downfall of the green team as he sparked the red and white to a fast scoring finish.

The early stages of the game showed two evenly matched teams exchanging the lead constantly. At half-time the score was 27-22 in favour of the cadets. R.M.C. was a very hard-checking team and this factor kept the game from becoming a fast, high-scoring contest.

Doug Hicks, who was high scorer for the Aggies with 16 points, turned in a very strong game. Also playing an exceptionally fine game was Evan Joubert who plagued R.M.C. all afternoon with his outstanding rebound recoveries.

Whether it was the long trip to Kingston or the strangeness of the playing floor that weighed heavy against the Green and Gold cagers; the fact remains that each man played a fine game and was a credit to Macdonald College.

Individual Scoring:-

R.M.C. - Devaney 6, Benedet 12, Hutton 2, Darling 10, Barregar 3, Simpson 2, Gall, Aichenger 15, Brown 12.

Macdonald - Hicks 16, MacCallum 9, Joubert 13, Green 1, Corrier 10, McCully, Farr, Colpitts.

On Sat. afternoon at 2:00 P.M. Macdonald will be playing host to Laval University. This will be the last chance for Mac supporters to see their basketball team in action before the Christmas holidays.

Remember fans, a team can be as good as its supporters want it to be so fill that gymnasium to the brim this Sat. and give the team your support.

Merry Christmas

Through the efforts of R.D. Hamilton a Carling Club has been organized on the campus this year. The Ste. Anne's Carling Club is one of the group on Wednesday, from 5 to 7. The President is R.D. Hamilton and Gordon Powell is the Secretary. Elmer Black and Martland Findlay are members of the match committee.

All the first practise eighteen boys turned out to receive instruction in their own game.

In the Ste. Anne's Bonspiel this week, two teams will be representing Macdonald College.
